

M'GLUE PLEADS GUILTY!

BULLETIN

Charles H. McGlue, former chairman of the Democratic state committee, suddenly pleaded guilty today to a charge of evading the federal income tax by failing to file a return for the year 1935. The government charged he made over $30,000 that year. The penalty calls for a jail term and $10,000 fine.

Sentence will be imposed next Tuesday.

"Yes, I Said 'Mars'!"—Here's "Mars-Flier" Cheston L. Eshleman being booked at North End police station on charge of being fugitive from justice. Camden, N. J., authorities claim he "stole" rented plane he lost at sea. And now nobody seems to be willing to believe his story of having started on a hop through inter-stellar space to our Red Planet neighbor. Police Lieut. James Crowley, with hand to cap, is one of the skeptics. Another is reporter at left.

MARS FLIER HELD HERE FOR THEFTS

Still insisting he was bound for Mars when he plunged into the sea yesterday 175 miles east of Cape Cod, Cheston L. Eshleman, 22-year-old Carlisle, Pa., student flier, was arrested in Boston Harbor today and waived extradition for his return to New Jersey.

He is charged in warrants held by Camden, N. J., police with theft of the $2600 monoplane which sank beneath him into the ocean, and theft also of the valuable blind-flying instruments it carried.

Early this afternoon, a Camden police officer, who was either grumpy or air-sick, landed at Boston Airport in a plane piloted by Edward Walt, owner of the Walt Flying School at Camden, where Eshleman rented the Mars ship.

The Camden officer pushed through the throng, refusing to give him same or answer reporters' questions, and seated himself in the Boston police car that took the party including Eshleman, to municipal court to obtain necessary papers for the lost flier's return.

FLY BACK TONIGHT

Eshleman had been taken to the airport by Inspectors John Tobin and Paul Crowley, to meet the Camden officer, Walt and Eshleman had no conversation, unless they talked in the police car on the way to court, but before entering the car Walt said of the "Mars flier."

"He seemed like a good boy, but I don't think much of him now."

Late in the afternoon it was expected that Eshleman would be started back in the Walt plane for Camden, with Walt piloting and with his erstwhile student and the grumpy Camden officer as passengers.

Eshleman, who paid $9 at Camden to rent a new monoplane for an hour—his second solo flight—was armed with the pistol and had $5 cents, a fountain pen and a real good story when he flopped in the ocean, to be rescued by a Boston trawler.

On a fugitive from justice warrant, and by request of Camden authorities, Eshleman was taken off the trawler Villanova after a six-minute chase today up the harbor by the police boat Michael H. Crowley.

DENIES CORRIGAN MIMIC

Skipper Astmann Bjartmar of the Villanova was unaware that the police boat had gone down the harbor to meet him until he heard the boat's frantic whistling.

At police headquarters, where Eshleman stood alone under the showup lights while being questioned, he steadily denied that his story was an attempt to "play cute" as Corrigan had done with his one-way story.

It was evident from his answers to question that Eshleman was going somewhere without authorization when he took the $9-an-hour uninsured ship up at Camden.

"Well, where were you going?" asked Captain Joseph Baccigrosso, in charge of the shipwreck.

"I was going to Mars," replied Eshleman, and there was a nary a crinkle at the corners of his mouth or eyes.

Q—Do you know where Mars is? A—Well, no; not exactly. It's hard to get any information about that place.

Q—Well, where were you going? A—Well, I couldn't see anything at all at night, and in the daytime the sky was overcast, so I couldn't see anything then either.

Then Glenn H. Jones, federal civil aeronautics authority inspector at Boston; Matthew Sheehan of the customs information division and John Russell of the immigration service took the youth for questioning on his flight.

"HAPPY LANDING"—Receiving a telegram at Boston police headquarters from his father which said in part, "happy landing." Cheston Eshleman holds wire and circles spot on police map where landing took place, but it wasn't a happy one.

FLIER TELLS OWN STORY OF HOW HE HOPPED FOR MARS

(Here is Cheston L. Eshleman's own story of his asserted attempt to fly to Mars in a $9-an-hour rented plane, and like Doug Corrigan and his "Wrong-Way" story, Eshleman's going to stick to it.)

By CHESTON ESHLEMAN

My only destination was Mars.

The idea came to me several days ago. I hired the plane at Camden, N. J., Airport for a one-hour flight on the afternoon of June 5.

(Ed's Note: At the field they said Eshleman was checked off the ground at 7:41, daylight time.)

Before that, however, I loaded 55 gallons of gasoline into cans and put them in my automobile and drove to Pitcairns Airport, the old abandoned former autogiro landing field 18 miles north of Philadelphia.

LAND OUT OF SIGHT

I parked the car there and then went to Camden to get the plane. I paid $9 for one hour of flying time in the plane.

There were only eight gallons of gas in the plane's tanks.

I flew to the Pitcairns airport, loaded the extra gasoline cans and took off again.

My idea was to continue trying to get altitude. The clouds were getting darker all the time, though, and the weather was closing in. It started to get foggy. Finally, I couldn't see any land markings.

I kept flying and flying all night. I didn't know where I was. Not

Jailing U. S. Boy For 'Hitler Jibes' Problem for Nazis

BERLIN, June 7 (AP)—The ministry of justice today was deciding what to do with William Bardwell Curtis, 20, of Oakland, Cal., who is in Heidelberg jail charged with slandering the German Reich.

Consul General Raymond H. Geist has urged German officials to be lenient.

Curtis, who was born in Cincinnati, was arrested May 15 in a beer hall in the old university town after he had written in the guest book a verse which was considered uncomplimentary to the Nazi regime.

Other guests took offense, a fight ensued and police were called.

(Curtis wrote his guardian, Rector Robinson, in Oakland that "the beating I received did me a lot of good—not bodily, but spiritually and morally.") Robinson translated the verse thus: "Der Fuehrer has no wife. The carpenter has no lumber. The butcher has no meat. This is the third Reich."

Curtis' case is in the hands of the chief attorney of a special court in Mannheim, who, however, since Curtis is a foreigner, cannot act without recommendation of the ministry of justice.

Curtis has been traveling in Europe since August.

Refugee Woman's Body Off Florida?

MIAMI, Fla., June 7 (AP)—Assistant Police Chief Forrest E. Nelson said today the body of a woman "apparently of German or Jewish descent" had been recovered from the ocean three miles off shore and that he was trying to ascertain whether she had been a passenger aboard the refugee liner St. Louis.

He said the woman was between 35 and 40 years old and was neatly dressed. The body apparently had not been in the water more than 20 hours. The St. Louis was reported seen off Miami Beach last Sunday.

Nelson said the woman wore an antique dinner ring and a wedding ring but there was no other means of identification.

Tale of Two Silk Toppers

Silk top hats worn by the Governor Saltonstall delegation to the New York World's Fair ran into an "open season," the governor revealed today, when Carroll L. Meins, secretary to the governor, definitely lost the top hat he had borrowed from his uncle.

Meins lost the hat on Queensborough bridge, New York, while riding to the World's Fair with the governor, the chief executive said.

The governor became disconnected from his own top hat for some hours, but it was finally returned to him. It had been placed in another of the automobiles that conveyed the party.

U. S. Guards King, Queen With G-Man Army

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 7—King George and Queen Elizabeth, ruling monarchs of the far-flung British Empire, set foot today upon the soil of the United States.

And as they enter this country a tremendous screen of protection will be thrown about them—a screen that includes even the use of mine sweepers in New York harbor.

In this border city, where the monarchs will be officially welcomed to the United States at 9:35 this evening by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, every known radical has been placed under surveillance and will be arrested if he or she makes so much as a single suspicious gesture.

THREAT AGAINST KING

One youth was arrested here this morning for a threat against Their Majesties. He gave his name as Paul Carlissimo, 18, of Utica, N. Y. Police Superintendent Thomas J. Holohan said he made "threatening and derogatory remarks" about King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

The purported remarks were overheard in a restaurant where the youth went after being turned back by Canadian immigration officials when he attempted to cross the Whirlpool Rapids bridge late yesterday, Holohan said. He was arrested at the request of United States immigration officers.

Scotland Yard's chief constable, Albert Canning, gave G-men the list of agitators he wants watched while the King and Queen travel from Niagara Falls to Washington, to New York, to President Roosevelt's Hyde Park home and to the departure hour.

CAUSED RUSSELL'S ARREST

Canning has already caused the arrest in Detroit of Sean Russell, Irish Republican leader, believing that his presence in the United States at this particular time might be the signal for trouble. He has indicated that other Irish Republican leaders are quite so prominent as Russell may be picked up.

Weeks of preparation have preceded the entry ceremony, expected to last scarcely five minutes.

After a brief visit in Niagara Falls, Ont., ending the first phase of their tour of Canada, the royal couple will ride their huge and silver train across Whirlpool Rapids bridge and stop under a rain shed in the time-grimed Suspension Bridge station.

The sovereigns will descend and be greeted by Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, who will present Secretary Hull and Mrs. Hull. The royal party and Secretary Hull's reception committee then will en-

Mexican Air Ace Dies In Crash

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Francisco Sarabia, Mexican aviator who recently broke the non-stop record from Mexico City to New York, was killed today when his plane crashed into the Potomac river after taking off from Bolling field on a visit to his mother at Ciudad Lerdo, Durango.

His wife and their ten-year-old son, Francisco, Jr., who were watching the take-off with members of the Mexican embassy staff, saw him fall.

Four minutes after leaving the ground the plane fell. Lieutenant Commander Manuel Cermeno and Dr. Luis Quintanilla of the Mexican embassy staff swam to it in the hope that Sarabia was still alive.

After two hours, a crane hauled in the ship which the young flier had dubbed "Conquistador del Cielo"—the Sky Conqueror. His body was inside.

Sarabia came here Monday after an "unsuccessful" flight from New York. He had landed there from Mexico City with but one gallon of gasoline left in his tank.

An army doctor expressed the opinion Sarabia's neck was broken when the plane hit.

Officials at army field said Sarabia gunned down the runway carrying a heavy load of gasoline. The craft left the ground after a run of about a mile and attained an altitude of about 100 feet, then fell into the river.

Sarabia brought to Washington a message of good will for President Roosevelt from President Lazaro Cardenas, of Mexico. He was the guest of honor at a reception at the Mexican embassy last night.

BURLY BEDROOM PROWLER ROUTED BY ROXBURY WIFE

Awakened when a burly, roughly-clothed intruder burst into her bedroom today, a pretty Roxbury mother beat him off after a ferocious battle, in which she was painfully bruised.

She is Mrs. Irene McLaughlin, 27, mother of two small children, of Roxbury street, Roxbury Crossing. Shortly before dawn, according to police, she was aroused by the sounds of a man prowling through her kitchen. She lay terrified as she heard him open her door, then screamed for help when he entered.

Her husband, John, slept in an adjoining room and he awoke when the young woman cried out. Fighting recklessly, Mrs. McLaughlin drove off her assailant after he tried to silence her.

The husband entered the fray and the intruder fled by jumping through an open window. The Mc-

Laughlin apartment is on the first floor of the building.

Neighbors, aroused by sounds of the struggle, called police and officers rushed Mrs. McLaughlin to City Hospital. She was treated for bruises of eye and cheek and a severely cut left hand.

5-Year-Old Peru Mother and Baby Wards of State

LIMA, Peru, June 7 (AP)—The Peruvian government today made child-mother Lina Medina and her infant son wards of state.

The baby and his mother, who is said by physicians to be only five years old, were placed under the guardianship of a board of officials to protect them from "grave harm which might result from uncontrolled dealings with commercial enterprises."

The baby was born May 14 while a commission of physicians, on hand to report on the amazing case of precocious motherhood, witnessed the Cæsarean operation in a Lima hospital.

Denies She Abandoned Baby Son

Although Mrs. Marion Considine, attractive blonde, firmly denied having abandoned her five-week-old son, who was cared for by a Dudley street family when she "disappeared," the young mother still did not have her baby in her home today.

Temporarily, at least, the infant, Ronald Considine, is being cared for at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lennon of West Springfield street, South End.

Dudley street police revealed that Mrs. Considine had asked Mrs. Mary Ahern of Dudley street to give the baby a home several weeks ago. When payments for the child's care were not kept up, Mrs. Ahern appealed to police for advice, and state officials were notified.

Last night, Mrs. Considine went to the police and explained she had been ill. She recently moved from Rose street, Roxbury, to Pembroke street, which had made it difficult for authorities to find her. She denied she tried to desert her baby and begged to see him.

Then she paid Mrs. Ahern and took the child to the Lennon home.

Trace $21,500 Checks Received by M'Glue

Four checks totalling $21,500, made out to Charles H. McGlue and dated at various times in 1935, were introduced in evidence today in support of the government's claim that McGlue made $34,000 in 1935, on which he failed to file an income tax return.

The checks were described and identified by a parade of executives of the Lowell Gas & Light Co., who took the witness stand before a courtroom crowded with public figures and politicians occupying ringside seats at the trial of the former Democratic state committee chairman.

WILL DEFEND M'GLUE

At the same time another political figure entered the scene as a principal, when Francis X. Hurley, former state auditor, took over as counsel for McGlue. McGlue had been conducting his own defense up to that time.

Two of the four checks introduced by the government were identified by one witness as in payment "for McGlue's services in handling the affairs of the company concerning minor stockholders and additional stocks."

The witness was Harry K. Wrench, of Minneapolis, who was vice president and general manager of the Lowell Company in 1935. At that time, he testified, McGlue was employed to handle the affairs of the company pending in Massachusetts, most of them pertaining to taxes and tax abatements.

Under questioning by Assistant U. S. Attorney Henry M. Leen, Wrench declared that a $5000 joint deposit had been made in the First National Bank of Boston in the name of the company and McGlue.

A check for $5000 closing out this deposit, dated July 12, 1935, and made out to McGlue, was later identified by Harry J. Patterson, general supervisor of the gas company, who also identified the two $7000 checks paid out to McGlue, which were dated July 29, 1935.

DISCUSSION RAISED

A question put to Wrench by Counselor Hurley resulted in a prolonged discussion between Leen, Hurley and Judge Hugh D. McLellan. Hurley had asked the witness if he knew who the attorneys for the Lowell Company's minor stockholders were, but Judge McLellan finally refused to allow the question.

Hugh H. Hite, now vice-president and secretary of the Minneapolis Gas Company, but an official of the Lowell Company in 1935, testified to authorizing issuance of a $1500 check to McGlue "in payment for services." The check, which he identified as it was placed in evidence, was drawn on the Continental Bank and Trust Co. of New York.

Sen. Brackman Gets Waiver

Failure to file marriage intentions at an earlier date caused Senator David M. Brackman, of Roxbury, and his bride-to-be, to go before Judge Frank W. Tomasello in municipal court today and secure a waiver of the five-day law.

The Roxbury senator had planned to file the intentions yesterday but due to the Senate filibuster on the state budget he was unable to get to City Hall.

On account of his wedding on Sunday to Miss Frances Grossman, 37, of Brookline street, Roxbury, it was necessary to secure the five day waiver.

Brackman, in his application, stated he was a lawyer while his intended wife said she was an antique dealer.

CALL COUNCIL TO ACT ON PATRIARCA TONIGHT

Governor Saltonstall today called a special meeting of his executive council for 7:30 tonight—a meeting which may pave the way, it was seen at the State House, to return to State Prison of Raymond L. S. Patriarca, pardoned robbery convict.

At first declining to give the reason for calling the special night meeting, the governor, at noon, finally said he wished the councilors to hear "certain facts and statements made to me regarding the Patriarca case."

The governor said he had asked Senator Jarvis Hunt of North Attleboro, chairman of the special commission investigating the alleged "pardon racket," to appear before the council tonight.

HUNT STORY VITAL

He wishes Hunt, the governor said, to repeat the statements made to him (Saltonstall).

"Do you regard the statements of Chairman Hunt of great importance?" the governor was asked at the conference.

"Yes, I do," he replied.

"Will tonight's special meeting revive the question of possible recommendation of Patriarca to State Prison?"

"I don't think it would be fair to the council to say anything further," was Saltonstall's reply.

WON'T TELL DETAILS

"Does the statement of Chairman Hunt have to do with the two non-existent priors whose names were mentioned in the Patriarca petition for pardon?" was the next question.

"That goes into details," said

Governor Saltonstall, "and I think I had better not say anything more until after tonight's meeting."

Patriarca, police-styled "Rhode Island Public Enemy No. 1," was released from State Prison last fall by Governor Charles F. Hurley and his council, after he had served only 84 days of concurrent three-to-five-year sentences.

Several days ago, the governor refused to revoke the pardon on a technicality that Patriarca left the state without notifying the parole board, although he had permission from Commissioner of Corrections Arthur T. Lyman.

Patriarca now is in Florida with his bride of several months, a sister of a messenger in the governor's office.

Green Demands Curb On RFC Lending

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Senator Green (D.) of Rhode Island, strong administration supporter, demanded today that Congress restrict the lending powers of the RFC, charging the agency with "abusing its powers."

2 GROUPS WEIGHING STATE TAX

Two meetings relative to Governor Saltonstall's program to raise $50,000,000 in new or increased taxes were in session today in different parts of the Parker House.

The legislative committee on taxation met in one room and the legislative committee of Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Association in another.

The legislative committee on taxation is tort by a revolt against most of the governor's program, especially that portion calling for a two-cent tax on each package of cigarettes, increased taxes on gasoline and reduction and elimination of state income tax exemptions, all of which would hit the working class of the state.

After the meeting, however, the committee decided to give "technical" approval to the governor's program in order to obtain its immediate consideration by the ways and means committee—a move which advanced the program one step nearer legislative action.

The revolt developed yesterday at a meeting of the legislative committee on taxation and has caused much concern to Republican leaders who believe that most of the governor's taxation program is in danger of being tossed out by the legislature.

The Taxpayers Association legislative committee is expected to make recommendations regarding the governor's tax program and also on the state budget.

Gets Year for $3500 Theft From Widow

Convicted of stealing $3500 and other property from the once wealthy widow of a former Stoneham chief of police, Francis A. Moulton, 29, of Prospect street, Melrose, today was sentenced to a year in the Middlesex County House of Correction.

Moulton, a former professional wrestler, who is said to have appeared under the name of "Pat O'Rourke," committed the thefts while he was employed as chauffeur by Mrs. Florence C. Green, 73, of Stoneham, it was testified.

Possessed of $23,000 as recently as six years ago, Mrs. Green is now on welfare, it was brought out.

Mrs. Green testified that Moulton entered into an agreement with her by which he was to invest her funds, and to support her, keeping her supplied with pocket money.

Once, she said, she gave him a check to cash and he opened a bank account with it in the name of his wife and two children. Another time, she said, he bought an interest in a fish market with her money, again in his wife's name. The market subsequently failed, according to the testimony.

Charge News of Girl Slaying Withheld

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., June 7 (AP)—The sorrowing family of slain Joan Stevens complained tearfully today that they were not notified of the 14-year-old schoolgirl's death until the day after she was shot by a state trooper whose commanding officer said he fired in self-defense.

Joan's mother and father shook their heads in puzzlement over the shooting as they arrived from their Nequehoning home for an inquest. Authorities expected would clarify some unexplained details.

The seventh-grade schoolgirl was shot Monday night during a meeting with two state policemen to discuss a bank robbery tip they said she had volunteered.

Corporal Benjamin Franklin is held in $5000 on a homicide charge, and District Attorney Albert Heimback declared he would bring the case before a grand jury "regardless of inquest findings."

SHOT SIX TIMES
Joseph Gallagher, an undertaker to whom police delivered the girl's body, reported he found five bullet holes circling her heart and a bullet in her forehead.

Joan's mother, Mrs. John Stevens, said her daughter failed to return home after being sent to a store Monday to get food for her father's lunch pail. He works in a Nequehoning coal mine.

The family mingled with a crowd around the automobile in which the girl was shot, but did not learn it was Joan until yesterday, Mrs. Stevens said.

She searched anxiously for her missing daughter and went to a mountainside inn run by Joan's aunt. Stevens was summoned from a mine shaft yesterday morning and notified his daughter had been shot.

"SELF DEFENSE"
The district attorney said "as far as the investigation has gone," the statement of Major William A. Clark that the seventh-grade schoolgirl, a coal miner's daughter, was shot in self-defense "seems correct."

He added, however, that he was conducting a personal inquiry. The shooting, Clark said, occurred Monday night in a police car on a street in this mining community of 4000, where the girl kept an appointment with Franklin and Private Edward J. Swine to give them details of a plot to rob a bank somewhere in eastern Pennsylvania.

The girl, who climbed into the back seat of the officers' car as it drew up to a curb, ended the interview when, Major Clark recalled, she suddenly pulled an automatic pistol from her purse and shouted to the policemen sitting in the front seat:

"I'll blow your heads off." Clark said Franklin pulled his own gun and fired "about four" shots into Miss Stevens' chest. The major added he knew of no reason for the girl's act, but that at the time she was being questioned about her identity.

Seven Dead, Several Wounded in Shootings
In widely separated parts of the country seven persons were dead today and several wounded, as the result of homicidal shootings. In Nogales, Ariz., fear that his smuggling would be revealed drove Homer Adams, 22, to lure his brother, Eugene, 19, and cousin, Antonio Gonzalez, Jr., 20, to a desert spot near here yesterday and shoot them. By the same ruse he lured Hector Gonzalez, another cousin, to the same spot, shot him in the head and left him for dead. Hector managed to stumble to a residence and relate his fantastic story.

Meantime, Adams was leading a fourth intended victim, 17-year-old Hortencia Gonzalez, into the desert. Miss Gonzalez was told she, too, would be killed. Instead, Adams fired into his own head as she prayed for his life.

Enoch Huckoveh, a 35-year-old Anaconda, Mont., metal worker, killed two men and wounded a passerby in a drunken shooting spree. Huckoveh, was wounded himself by angered witnesses after he shot Ed Stewart, 35, night police chief, and Albert H. Oldhaber, 33, former deputy sheriff. Burt Jones, 39, Anaconda, was hit in the leg by a bullet.

In Fergus Falls, Minn., a murder charge was lodged against Alvin Rix, 21, accused of killing his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Rix, and wounding his brother, Carl, 13, in a row over a $1000 legacy.

Indiana and Michigan police set up blockades today in an effort to apprehend a slim, red-headed woman in a stolen automobile who shot Policeman Frank Cowgill, 35, when he and another officer in Michigan City, Ind., tried to question her and a male companion who indicated he was her husband.

At Last! The Perfect Dunking Doughnut

CHICAGO, June 7 (AP)—One look at the exhibits at the National Inventor's Congress today dispelled the idea that inventing was exclusively a pastime for men.

Twenty-four feminine inventors proudly exhibited their brain-child, a doughnut with a handle.

A woman had a hand in one of the most unusual exhibits at the congress—a doughnut with a handle. Arthur Busham of Indianapolis, 18, gallantly gave his wife credit for her part in designing the doughnut that was the answer to a dunker's prayer. It's triangular and the handle is part of the doughnut.

Busham confessed to being a veteran doughnut dunker.

"One day," he confided, "I said to Mrs. Busham, 'what this country needs is a doughnut with a handle for elegant dunking.' So we both went to work and the result was the invention of the doughnut which cannot get drowned in a coffee cup."

Miss Johnnie Reif, a young abstractor of Tulsa, Okla., exhibited a simple lightweight adjustable circular cardboard shield for feminine faces, necks and ears, to be worn under a hot dryer after a shampoo.

Her room-mate, Dorothy Le Sueur, a trained nurse, ranks as a successful inventor—that is, her idea is already on the market. It's a cheap "use-once-and-throw-away" baby diaper.

"SELF-SEWING" BUTTONS

Another Tulsa woman, incidentally a fourth of the women exhibitors were from Tulsa) came through with an air-conditioned piepan. As fashioned by Mrs. Samuel Pendleton, McClurey, this wire bottom contraption is insurance against soggy pie crusts.

A cloth make-up band to keep the cold cream out of the hair was the contribution of Mrs. Catherine M. Gorman of Cedar-Rapids, Ia., Mrs. Maria K. Heinzman of Tulsa designed a make-up cape.

Esther Brown of Roanoke, Va., went complicated with a combination vanity-walking stick-beach-cape-beach umbrella. In the top of the metal cane is a vanity. Out of the cane comes umbrella rib and off the shoulders of the beach-bather comes a cape that covers the umbrella.

HANDLE ON DOUGHNUT

Georgie Lyle of Littlefield, Tex., showed buttons with a trick fastening to make them attach to the dress without aid of needle and thread, and Mrs. Effie Boeter of Seattle, Wash., sent her idea of a poor man's caddy—a golf bag on a wheel.

Officer J. J. Bogue Dies in W. Roxbury

Patrolman John J. Bogue, 51, member of the Boston police force since 1919, died today at his home in Willow street, West Roxbury, after a long illness. Originally assigned to the traffic division, he was most recently attached to the West Roxbury station.

Lawyer Seeks Annulment of Sister's Bridal

A Brighton lawyer appealed to Suffolk probate court today as counsel for his sister, Mrs. Frances Jacobs of New York City, seeking an annulment of her elopement marriage eight years ago to Harry I. Jacobs, former Boston department store executive.

The lawyer, Nathan Heffer of Colborne road, Brighton, was a boyhood friend of Jacobs, he revealed.

He asked Judge John V. Mahoney to grant the annulment on grounds that Jacobs was married when he eloped with Heffer's sister to Nashua in 1931.

Judge Mahoney reserved decision, after hearing Mrs. Jacobs, the sole witness, tell of a surprise visit to her mother-in-law in New York, when she learned of her husband's other family.

"She surprised me," Mrs. Jacobs testified. "She told me my husband had a wife and two children in Philadelphia."

Jacobs was divorced by the Philadelphia wife, but not until 1932, a year after he had married the plaintiff, she testified.

Mrs. Jacobs told the court that at the time she married Jacobs she was a widow with a daughter.

Old Colony-EI Combine Urged

PLYMOUTH, June 7.—A proposal to consolidate the Old Colony Railroad with the Boston Elevated is being considered by the selectmen of towns in Plymouth, Barnstable, Bristol and Norfolk counties, it was revealed today.

SEEKS ANNULMENT—charging her husband, Harry I. Jacobs, former Hub store executive, was married when he eloped with her, Mrs. Frances Jacobs of New York, today sought annulment of their marriage in Suffolk court. Judge John V. Mahoney reserved decision.

Heat-Wave Sets Fire to Woman's Hat in London

LONDON, June 7 (AP)—London's hottest June day in three years (84 degrees) set fire to a woman's hat in Hyde Park today.

The sun's rays, intensified through a glass ornament, started the straw chaparral of Phyllis Proctor to smoldering. A bystander snatched it from her head as it broke into flame.

Mercury Hits 84, Dazzling Londoners

LONDON, June 7 (AP)—Dazzling heat, and drizzle and dust in some areas, troubled perspiring Europeans today more than guns or armies.

Crop talk took precedence, for the moment at least, over talk of diplomacy. On the streets temperatures were quoted more frequently than air fleet totals.

The British judiciary dispensed justice without benefit of wig. A few daring members of parliament appeared without vests; Frenchmen walked the streets in their shirt-sleeves. Italians rejoiced that the wheat crop would be saved.

Prime Minister Chamberlain left his umbrella in its hall stand and wore a gray top hat. Noel Coward drank chilled lemon juice at a garden party.

The Fahrenheit figure was far from comparable with those of a United States heat wave, but the average western European isn't used to mercury readings around the 100 mark. There is little or no ice water or air conditioning to ease suffering.

In London, the thermometer showed 84 degrees, the warmest June figure in three years. A third day of heat in Paris brought 89. In Italy, temperatures generally were above 80.

A hot spell in Germany with temperatures near 90 was welcomed by farmers.

Too Hot to Handle

4-WAY HUB ECONOMY IS URGED

A four-point economy program designed to prevent city tax increases for the current year and save $200,000 in administrative costs was presented to Mayor Tobin today by the Boston Municipal Research Bureau.

Commending the city council for its sparsely attended public budget hearing in Faneuil Hall, the Bureau suggested the following economies:

1.—No hiring. Strict enforcement of this policy would yield $200,000 of savings beyond those already anticipated in 1933 budget.

STOP PAY INCREASES

2.—Suspension of salary increases. Complete elimination of step-rates in all departments, including schools, involves potential savings of another $200,000. The Bureau quotes Mayor Tobin's statement that step-rate increases would not be effective unless voted by Council.

3.—Specific economies. As illustrative, the Bureau cites cost of public celebrations, excessive printing items, and large number of constables.

4.—Horizontal cut. As last resort, if there is no other favorable development, a horizontal cut can be made in non-personnel items, to apply to all departments.

URGES SCHOOL SAVINGS

The Bureau also urged proposed highway fund grants be put toward boulevard and Summer traffic tunnel maintenance costs, netting the city an estimated $350,000.

Further economies in school costs were declared necessary.

School authorities have fallen short of the demands imposed upon them," said the statement.

"Despite declining enrollment, school operating costs rose to a peak in 1931, and have declined but slightly since then."

All Boughed Down

A tree thief was sought by police of the Fields Corner station today. Benjamin Fain, proprietor of a flower shop in Galiano boulevard, said a Japanese red mantle tree, planted in front of his establishment, vanished in broad daylight.

Record High Budget Goes Back to House

A $184,575,828 biennial budget, record high for any two-year period in 300 years of Massachusetts history, today went back to the House for final enactment after the Senate, ending a three-hour filibuster, voted passage in a 17 to 13 vote.

The disagreement was over two items which are now scheduled to be ironed out in conference committees in the House.

The two items which caused the filibuster and a 10-hour session, longest this year, were an appropriation of $4500 for investigators on the staff of Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever, only Democrat holding a state elective office, and refusal to make an allotment to retain 13 deputy income tax assessors and collectors, appointed by former Gov. James M. Curley. Republican Senators charged that the investigators on Dever's staff were being used for political purposes.

Senator Lundgren, Republican, of Worcester, declared some of the Curley appointees had absented themselves from work to lobby for the appropriation sought. There was talk that Republicans and Democrats might get together and make a trade by which one of the eliminated appropriations would be restored to the budget.

Actually, the two-year budget will total $184,500,000 with the addition of $18,200,000 of gasoline tax money which has been voted for distribution to cities and towns, and reserve funds which will be set up later.

A cut of $5000 was made in the appropriation for state farm employees, and the $4800 salary of the food and drug division restored. State officials were allowed $175 a day for meals while traveling. The estimated appropriations of $25,550 for the division of public libraries was restored and $22,800 for personnel of the board of probation.

Fair Exhibitor Held For Python Snake

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP)—When a report got around the World's Fair grounds that a 24-foot python was on the loose, workmen and a few stray Fair police and boy scouts started hunting for the big snake.

New York city police—a skeptical lot—started hunting instead for the promoter of the giant monsters show, Cliff Wilson, and when they found him served him with a summons to appear in Magistrate's Court today on a charge of circulating false reports that a python named Jumbo had escaped.

Beauty Can't Collect Award of $30,000

NEW YORK, June 7 (INS)—Jas. Simpson, 21, beauty contest winner who lost both legs in a railroad accident two years ago, had a $30,000 judgment today in settlement of her $250,000 suit, but little chance of collecting.

The railroad, the New Jersey & New York, is bankrupt.

Sonja Scoffs at Story She'll Wed Orsatti

NEW YORK, June 7 (INS)—Talk that she will marry her agent, Vio Orsatti, is "too funny for words," Sonja Henie, the alkaide, declared today before embarking on the Queen Mary.

"Mr. Orsatti is my agent and also my friend and naturally people will talk," she explained, "but it's all too funny for words."

ONE DEAD TWO HURT IN 6 FIRES

Six fires in Greater Boston, all within 12 hours, caused the death of a Malden woman, injuries to two men and forced 20 other persons to flee for safety.

The dead woman, Mrs. Nora Kannheiser, 41, of Pleasant street, Malden, died in Malden hospital a few hours after she had suffered severe burns in her home when her clothing became ignited. Police reported careless smoking as the cause.

Ralph Holmes, occupant of an apartment above Mrs. Kannheiser, received severe burns to both hands as he and his wife tried to rescue the woman. They beat out the flames and tore burning clothing from her body, after which firemen rushed her to the hospital.

SEVERELY BURNED

Abraham Katz, 25, one of the owners of a fire shop at Blue Hill avenue and Walk Hill street, Mattapan, was severely burned while battling flames which swept his place of business.

Firemen, responding to two alarms, were forced to wear masks because of the smoke from burning rubber.

In East Boston, a fire which started on the top floor of a Marion street tenement building, drove 20 persons to the streets, including a woman.

Mrs. Margaret McCuskey, celebrating her 75th birthday, was carried to safety by her son, Charles, and married daughter, Jennie Holland, 29. The woman had been bedridden for six years and two weeks ago suffered a severe heart attack. The fire spread to an adjoining apartment building driving out six families.

A two-alarm fire which swept from the basement to the fourth story of the Eastern Distillery Company, in Elm street, North End, threatened the market district, while a series of explosions menaced the firemen.

Several explosions rocked the market district, caused by alcoholic fumes. The loss was set by fire officials at $20,000 to the building, but no immediate estimate was available of the loss to the stock of the company.

Another $20,000 damage was caused when a spectacular blaze swept through the yard of the Somerville Wrecking & Salvage Company, in McGrath highway, Somerville. Quick work by the firemen kept the flames from spreading to nearby buildings.

The pyromaniac being sought by Newton police for recent fires in that city, was credited with having set a blaze in an Ash street, Auburndale barn, and causing damage to valuable antiques stored there.

Chief Clarence W. Randlett was badly cut in the left hand when he attempted to open a window on the second floor of the barn.

FIRE VICTIM—Following severe burns inflicted when her clothing caught fire in her Malden home, Mrs. Nora Kannheiser of Pleasant street died today in Malden Hospital.

Heart Pierced, 'Takes it Easy'

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., June 7 (INS)—With a steel chip about the size of a 22 caliber bullet imbedded deeply in his heart, Ben Marshall was "taking it easy" on doctors' orders and on their assurance that he would be "as good as new" after a few days rest.

Marshall, 53-year-old oil field pumpjack, entered a Wichita Falls hospital 11 days ago complaining he "felt sick" from the effects of a steel chip flying from the head of a hammer he was using on a steel oil drum. The steel cut through his clothing and pierced his left side.

"I still agree with the philosophy of the late Will Rogers, repeated often but not often enough, that 'we ought not to spend money for things we don't need.'"

Quoting Senator M. Byrd as he said that debts and deficits are a "breach of faith" with the people of the United States.

"I think that genuine prosperity must come from the productivity of the citizens of our Republic."

During the campaign of Mr. Byrd, he said that a public debt is a "breach of faith" with the people of the United States.

"A public debt is a universal mortgage. It is a first lien on every acre of land, on every house and home, on every piece of property, on every service that is rendered, on every transaction that is made."

These views of Senator Byrd are widely known to the people of the United States, and he is a very true champion of government economy and thrift, as every citizen knows.

It was reported that the Democratic Party should renounce the New Deal and return to its original principles and resume administration of the government. It was reported that its leaders would have been able to deal with those principles and programs.

Chart Depicting Wool Prices

Two months ago, the price of wool was about 100 cents per pound. It has since fallen to about 60 cents per pound. This is due to a combination of factors, including a decline in demand and a surplus of wool on the market.

Consequently, the price of wool has fallen. This has had a significant impact on the wool industry, which is currently facing a difficult situation. Many wool growers are struggling to maintain their operations, and the price of wool is expected to continue to decline.

Scale: left in cents per pound. The chart shows a steady decline in wool prices over the two-year period.

The time has come when the wool industry must take action to stabilize the market. This may involve reducing production or increasing demand. The industry is currently in a state of crisis, and it is essential that a solution be found as soon as possible.

Most of the wool growers are small farmers who rely on wool as their primary source of income. They are currently facing a difficult financial situation, and they need help to get back on their feet.

Magie Can't Agree

Austen Lake: Irish Sweeps King; Genesis of Lottery

IT WILL SOON BE TIME FOR ANOTHER Irish sweepstake to bowl around, with its leg-agents peddling bits of colored flimsy at $2.50 a copy. The United States and particularly Boston, is the most avid buyer of these dream stuffs, both authentic and fraudulent, pouring some $30,000,000 annually into the big Dublin pool, a percent age of which is skimmed by private individuals who thought up the scheme originally and have divided more than $6,000,000 to date.

AUSTEN LAKE

The gentleman who first conceived of the notion of a Sweeps was a Londoner named Spencer Freeman, a suave, typical Britisher with lean, aquiline features.

Freeman first launched his Sweeps lottery in the feudal canton of Lichtenstein, which forms a corner of Switzerland, where gambling laws at the moment were rather loose. Ireland at the time was still under British anti-lottery regulations.

During the first years of the Lichtenstein Sweeps was just a peasant promoter, inspired by other suspicious and chivalry by the other sweepstakes which came for the right to operate lotteries in the canton. As the Sweeps spread, the Sweep agent in Ireland became a first State and, naturally, became legalized lotteries for charitable purposes.

Took a Modest 2½ Per Cent

SO FREEMAN TACTFULLY TOOK AN Irish politician named Joe McGrath and a Dublin gambler named Dick Duggan into partnership, realizing that the Irish would resent being exploited by a Briton. They hooked up with a local hospital, hired a suite on O'Connell street, which is Dublin's main business artery, and began sending bona-fide to hire leg agents all over the world, and especially in America.

Pretty soon five other Dublin hospitals, being jealous of the flow of sudden riches prepared to operate sweeps of their own. So Freeman quickly incorporated them in his pool, gradually expanding until it embraces 48 other charitable foundations in the Free State, and whacked up about $600,000 in the first 30 sweepstake drawn.

The three partners, Freeman, McGrath and Duggan—the latter having recently expired, were entitled under the law to take a 7 per cent share of the gross receipts, which, considering that the lottery had handled more than a quarter billion dollars to date would have netted them the very cozy sum of $1,000,000. But they preferred to keep this low percentage, a matter of 2½ per cent, which meant genuine charity, to a three-way split of $1,000,000 over a stretch of several and too long years.

Thus, on an initial investment of $500,000, which they financed themselves, the trio realized more than 1200 per cent for their money with the golden goose still spouting $18,000,000 eggs.

STILL, THE SWEEPS HAS BEEN SCRUPTULOUSLY conducted under supervision of the Dail, with a lot of high pressure props and Hollywood ballyhoo. The cost of operation is trivial when compared with the volume of sales, about 20 per cent of which goes to charities and another 10 per cent to overhead. The wages of 2500 employees picks the take somewhat and the cost of merchandising the little lucknote

Miller Piling Up
A Record Vote

JOE CRONIN, Red Sox manager, continues to pile up votes in the race to win positions on the American League and National League All-Star teams.

In the avalanche of mail received by this column Cronin has received a record vote. Joe Cronin had named Frank Crosetti of the Yankees as his team.

Joe Cronin has also developed a big following. It is the opinion of baseball fans everywhere that Double X is entitled to hold down first base for the American League team in the match with the National League All-Stars at the Yankee Stadium, New York on July 11.

Lefty Grove, Red Sox southpaw ace, has received much consideration from the fans. When Woodie Run, youthful Sox flinger, has been named to take a few bows.

Joe Cronin led the way in naming Eddie Miller of the Reds to play shortstop for the National League All-Stars. There has been a record vote for Miller.

"Mr. Boston" is today publishing a few of the selections.

Guldahl Open Golf Best Bet

By LAWTON CARVER

International News Service Sports Editor

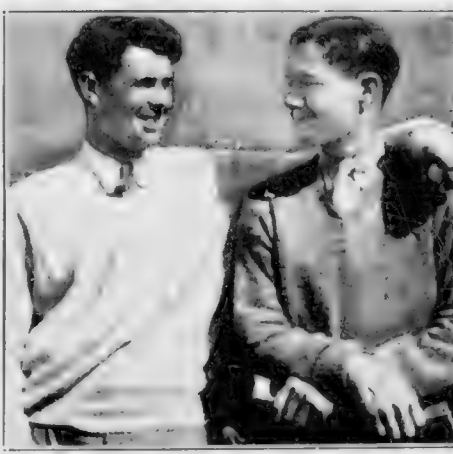

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—The first time since 1910 that a golfer has been named to the National Open Golf Championship, which will be played at the Rye Club in Rye, N. Y., on June 11-12-13, is Henry Picard.

The Detroit golfer, who is a sharp-shooter, is expected to bring home the trophy, which is the most coveted in the game.

THINKS HE'LL WIN

Henry Picard, who is a sharp-shooter, is expected to bring home the trophy, which is the most coveted in the game.

Guldahl will start against Paul Runyan, a former Plymouth caddy, who is now situated at Hershey, Pa.

GULDAHL'S CHIEF THREATS Henry Picard and Byron Nelson, who are expected to finish well up in the National Open which starts tomorrow at Spring Mill, Philadelphia. Picard, winner of last week's Metropolitan Open in playoff with Paul Runyan, is a former Plymouth caddy. He's now situated at Hershey, Pa.

books of tickets, which are watermarked and secretly engraved in London as a safeguard against counterfeiting, runs into a tidy figure. The hospitals cut up about $5,000,000 a year after returning about $47,000,000 in prize money to the lucky winners.

There is, of course, considerable subversion required to avoid the U. S. postal laws against the sale of lottery shares, but the Irish and a flock of comely copyists, like the various Canadian sweeps, manage to flout the law by bootlegging their products in office hallways and keeping up-to-date sucker lists. The United States officially forbids the use of the mails to the promoters and denies the right of the people to sell or purchase sweep receipts. But it is none the less prompt in demanding the tax cuts of the winners as soon as the prizes are distributed and thus becomes a partner in the illicit traffic which it forbids.

FREEMAN, OR SOME OF HIS MORE Freeman, who is a sharp-shooter, is expected to bring home the trophy, which is the most coveted in the game.

He has expert acquaintance with the various laws of various countries and the means of circumventing them. He has no other trade in his promotion, which is his Oxford University. He has no other trade in his promotion, which is his Oxford University.

Tigers Convinced } Lynch to Play Host
Yanks Beatable } To Gridiron Club

By BILL GRIMES

Manager Del Baker must have performed a miracle with the Detroit team since he had his charges on display at Fenway Park . . . The Tigers looked and played like a second division club against the Red Sox a couple of weeks ago but during the past two days they have not only beaten the Yanks twice but they have held the New Yorkers to a total of eight hits . . .

The Bees and the Red Sox were victims of tough breaks yesterday . . . Both should have come through with victories but instead of that handed the verdicts to the Cards and Indians, respectively . . . Unquestionably both Casey Stengel and Joe Cronin figured that they were "in with safe leads."

President Bob Quinn, Vice-President Leo Quinn, Secretary John Quinn, Danny MacFadden and Eddie Miller will represent the Bees at Georgetown on Monday . . . The Bees party will leave here on Monday for New York and will take a sleeper to Cooperstown. They will then go to Bradford, Pa., where the Bees are scheduled to play an exhibition game against John Quinn's Pony League club on Tuesday.

Casey Stengel and Frankie Frisch were the guests of the Gridiron Club last night at the Hotel Lenox . . . It was the first time that Stengel and Frisch has met the members of the Gridiron Club and they both went over with a bang . . . Tom Lynch has invited the Gridiron Club to be his guests after the annual golf tournament June 29 at the Salem Country Club . . . Among the guests at the Gridiron Club dinner were Philip and Jack Cahill, sons of the late Dr. Harry Cahill . . . Head Coach Joe Sheeketski, Bart Sullivan, Gene Flynn and Fr. Phelan of Holy Cross, Jack Keilheit, baseball coach at Brown, and Bunny Corcoran enjoyed the Bees-Cards game from a box . . . Bill Cowell, Bill Ormsby, Tuss McLaughrey and Jere Sullivan are packing their traveling bags for a fishing trip in Northern Maine . . .

The W. G. A. wishes that players who are to participate in the Easterns next week at Charles River would send in their entries . . . The annual Boston Retail Trade Board tournament will be held tomorrow at the Charles River Country Club . . . Larry Bitner has some innovations which promise to add interest to the occasion . . . Mrs. C. F. Eaton, Jr., The Country Club, who was the only outstanding player that failed to get through the qualifying round of the state championship at Weston was beaten in the consolation fight yesterday.

Mrs. Eaton has qualified in every championship she had played for more than a decade until Monday . . . Roy Brondson's class for junior members of Brae Burn has developed such interest among the youngsters that now when any of them are missing from home the parents immediately call Brae Burn to see if their offerings are taking golf lessons . . .

Jack Keilheit, the Brown coach, refused offers to manage the Tupper Falls and the Montpelier clubs of the Northern League . . . He's one of the sound baseball men in the game and should be a Class AA or a big league manager . . . Hughie Gregg, district attorney of Essex County, is a rabid baseball fan . . . His sons are at Duke University and they tell him that Eric Tipson has signed with the Yankees . . . Would the powers that be of the W. G. A. be rid if Mrs. George Norby, Green Hill, went through and knocked off a few of the outstanding contenders for the state title . . .

The Weston Golf Club course has never been in better condition than at present . . . True, the rough is tough but the fairways and greens are beautiful . . . And, Weston is a real test of golf went through and knocked off a few of the outstanding contenders for the state title . . .

And, Weston is a real test of golf went through and knocked off a few of the outstanding contenders for the state title . . . Mrs. H. Warren Beard was not playing up to her usual form when she started to defend her title but her game is getting better daily and if she gets through today, she'll be very hard to beat.

Harvard Navy Off Saturday For Red Top

Harvard's navy has only three more workouts on the Charles before it moves to Red Top to prepare for the climactic four-mile duel with Yale at New London on Friday, June 23.

Despite the defeat by Cornell, Coach Tom Bolles is standing pat on the crew which has rowed so well all year. Perhaps he will make a change or two at Red Top, but he has given no indication of a shift in the eating order since the Cayuga defeat.

Although the boys are in the midst of their final examinations, they are drilling daily at five p. m., varsity, six p. m., club, and combination eight.

The combination crew, made up of varsity and freshman substitutes, is stroked by Barr Comstock, stroke of this year's third varsity. John Reese, a sophomore, is at No. 7; Paul Penneyer, a freshman, at No. 6; Sandy Whitman, a sophomore, at No. 5; Pete Goodwin, the only senior in the boat, is at No. 4; J. Ewing Walker, Ed Perkins and Reg Fitz, all freshmen, are at 3, 2 and 1, bow, respectively. The coxswain is Art Kiney, a sophomore. The crew averages around 175 pounds in weight.

The entire crimson squad, including managers, waiters etc., will move to Red Top Saturday. The first workout on the Thames will be held Sunday.

Coach Bolles plans to get in two time trials over the full four-mile course before the June 23 regatta. Although Yale is undefeated this year, Harvard has high hopes of winning for the fourth straight year.

The varsity crew, win or lose, will compete in the Royal Henley regatta in England next month.

'Admiral' Has Faced Barrier for Last Time

BERLIN, Md., June 7 (AP)—War Admiral struck his colors—the great thoroughbred son of Man O' War will go no more to the races.

Owner Samuel D. Riddle announced through William Whaley, manager of his Glen Riddle Farms, that the nemesis of 1937 three-year-olds would be retired to the stud "within the next few days."

Whaley said The Admiral had not rounded into form at Belmont Park after treatment for a rheumatic ailment. He will be shipped to Maryland shortly, ending the racing career of the gallant little son of Man O' War-Brushup who "tripped" in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes of 1937, joining three other horses as wearers of the three-ply crown.

The little brown jugful of fight gave his outstanding display of racing courage in the 37 Belmont Stakes. The Admiral stumbled at the start and tore a bloody gash in his right forehoof. He recovered to win the grueling mile-and-a-half going away. In the winners circle his underbody was splashed with blood from his wounded hoof.

SMALL HORSE

The peewee speedball—He stood 15 hands, 2 1/4 inches as a four-year-old, a full hand smaller than his oversize daddy—was undefeated as a three-year-old, and was voted by racing writers the outstanding thoroughbred of 1937.

He copped the $50,000 Widener Cup at Hialeah in a breeze in the spring of '38. Other stakes victories included the Chesapeake, Eastern Shore Handicap, Washington Handicap, Pamlico Special, Jockey Club Gold Cup, Wilson Handicap, Whitney Stakes, Saratoga Cup and Saratoga Handicap.

War Admiral finished out of the money only once, at Suffolk Downs in the mud in 1938, when he chased Menow, Busy K. and War Minstrel to the wire.

The Admiral shared the spotlight, if not the glory, in the match text against Seabiscuit at Philadelphia, Nov. 1, 1938. The two standout stake horses were finally brought together after a year of dickering, and the "Biscuit" came home four lengths in front, in track record time from a walk-up start.

WON 21 RACES

War Admiral started three times in the Winter season after the match race, and won all three. He was unready for the '39 Widener at Hialeah and was scratched. He never went to the post again.

In 26 starts, the Riddle Ball of Fire won 21 races, placed three times, was third once and ran out of the money at Suffolk. He won $272,540.

Whaley said he would probably be shipped to Glen Riddle near here for the summer, and would likely be sent to join his famous old man at Faraway Farms, Lexington, Ky., this fall.

Wilson Clicks With 3 More

Blazing along on a terrific win streak, Dave Wilson, premier handicapper, followed Monday's winners and the daily double, with three more yesterday, including the daily double!

Friendly Paul, Dave's top choice in the opening race, ran away from his field to score an impressive triumph and payoff the nice price of $19.40 to win.

In the second race, Wilson's selection, Continuity, moved into the lead at the stretch and scored a bang-up two-length win, returning $5.40 on the win end.

Coupled in the daily double, his two top picks returned $25.80.

High Arch, Wilson's best bet of the day, went in the third race and simply outclassed his opposition. The straight payoff was $4.00.

A straight win bet on Wilson's top horses and the daily double showed a profit of $27.60. Monday the ace handicapper showed a profit of $50.40. Just think, two days of racing gone by this week and already a profit of $58.00!

Dave Wilson's grand handicaps are an EXCLUSIVE feature of the BOSTON AMERICAN and SUNDAY ADVERTISER.

KEEP HAPPY BY FOLLOWING WILSON.

Farrell Ruled Out Of Bowie Track

BALTIMORE, June 7 (AP)—The State Racing Commission, voting two to one, ousted Joseph A. Farrell as general manager of the Bowie race track and the half-mile track at upper Marlboro.

Chairman Jervis Spencer, Jr., cast the dissenting vote. The action resulted from a commission hearing into a complaint challenging regularly of Farrell's appointment and his fitness for the position.

Testimony showed Farrell's selection was accomplished by a combination of two large blocks of Bowie stock.
